Hague, March 28, N. S. The States of Holland have issued a Placart, in Consequence of the Resolution they took this Day Se'nnight, for the Continuation of the extraordinary Taxes for the current Year. It is enacted by this Placart, that the Hundredth and Two Hundredth Penny shall be paid in two Terms, the first expiring on the 15th of May, and the other on the 1ſt of July. And in the Preamble it is ſaid, that the States had found themſelves under an abſolute Neceſſity of having Recourſe to theſe extraordinary Taxes, in order to increaſe their Finances, and make them anſwerable to the exceſſive Expences which they had been involved in during the two laſt Wars, (and eſpecially during the laſt;) great Part of which remains ſtill unpaid, becauſe the ordinary Revenues of the Province are unequal to ſuch a Charge. And at the End they add, that by their Placart of the 17th of February, 1748, they had given Orders, that the Liſts of the Perſoneel Quotiſatie, or Poll-Tax, ſhould be reviſed by Commiſſaries, in order to correct the many Faults that had crept into them, by the continual Alterations to which they are liable, and even to make out new Liſts, and to regulate that Tax upon a more equal Footing than heretofore, and that therefore, having deliberated upon levying the ſaid Tax again for the current Year, they had determined to reſerve to themſelves the Power of taking that Meaſure, after they ſhould have ſettled the Manner in which the above-mentioned Amendments might be made. And in the mean while, they enjoin all Perſons whatſoever, to ſend in immediately to the reſpective Receivers, all the Arrears due by them towards that Tax, for the ſo ego'ing Years, on Pain of being liable to a Seizure in Caſe of Diſobedience. This Morning three conſiderable Burghers of Leyden (who had been brought Priſoners from thence in December laſt, for having been chiefly concerned in the Riots that occaſioned the ſending of a Garriſon there) received their Sentence, according to which, two of them are to ſuffer three Years Impriſonment, and then to be baniſhed for Life; and the third was brought to the Scaffold, and had the Sword paſſed over his Head by the common Hangman. Lieutenant Admiral de Grave, of the College of the Maeſe, died a few Days ago at Amſterdam, of an Apoplectick Fit, in an advanced Age.

Hague, April 1, N. S. M. Boey, who was Secretary to the Gecommiteerde Raad, has been appointed to ſucceed the late M. Buys, as firſt Secretary to the States of Holland; but the Poſt of ſecond Secretary, (which is now vacant by M. Boey's Promotion) will not be diſpoſed of till the Day the States of Holland meet again, which will be next Friday. Her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Royal is conſiderably better, and has had no Return of her Ague ſince ſhe began to take the Bark. The States of Holland have drawn up a Placart, and ſent it to the reſpective Towns, in order to its being publiſhed; by which they re-eſtabliſh the Duties upon fine white Salt imported into this Province, from Frieſland, Overyſſel and Groningen; which Duties have not been levied ſince the Suppreſſion of the Farms.
